

I am outraged that Sinclair Broadcasting decided to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election. Sinclair uses the public airwaves free of charge, and is obligated by law to serve the public interest. This is a biased, one-sided political advertisement being passed off as fair and balanced "news". Sinclair should obey the law and acknowledge and pay for this documentary as an advertisement. I expect the FCC to enforce the law.

This is a perfect example of the harm resulting from large companies controlling the airwaves. We need to get more balanced information through the media so that people can make informed decisions and keep our country a true democracy.

Instead of something produced at "News Central" far away, it's more important that we see real people from our own communities and more substantive news about issues that matter.

Sinclair's actions show why we need to strengthen media ownership rules, not weaken them. They show why the license renewal process needs to involve more than a returned postcard. Thank you.
